

How-to guide: Microcredentials and Badges

Hello and congratulations on becoming a Certified Direct Care Professional (CDCP).

As a CDCP, there are additional training opportunities available for you in the form of microcredentials. If you are not yet a CDCP, you are invited to participate in the program. The CDCP program is free and can be completed at your own pace online. You can register for the CDCP program here: UWGB sign-up.

What is a Microcredential?

A microcredential is a credit, certificate, certification, or other kind of recognized training in a specific area that goes beyond the CDCP training. For CDCPs, microcredentials serve as an opportunity for continuing education.

Microcredentials allow CDCPs to expand their knowledge and expertise in the home and community-based field in a way that can be recognized by potential employers. The Wisconsin Department of Health Services (DHS) is collaborating with numerous organizations to offer these additional training opportunities for CDCPs.

Once you complete a microcredential, the training will be included in your profile on the CDCP registry so employers will be able to view your new skill.

What is a Badge?

A badge is an easy, visual, and virtual way to show verified skill mastery to employers. When you complete a microcredential, you will gain access to a virtual badge. You can upload and display your badges in your emails, on your resume, and on your social media accounts.

As a CDCP, you have already earned a badge! Your CDCP badge shows that you have successfully completed the 30-hour online training developed by DHS and the University of Wisconsin Green Bay. Upon passing the CDCP competency test, you will get an email notification (see below).

Congratulations, you earned a badge!

Certified Direct Care Professional

The Certified Direct Care Professional badge is based on the successful completion of 14 competency topics utilizing online curriculum. Students are given a proctored exam to ensure they are proficient in the skills learned in the course, passing with a score of at least 70%.
